INSTRUCTIONS FOR STUDENTS WITH A PERMANENT DISABILITY

Definition: “Permanent disability” for the purposes of student financial aid means a functional limitation caused by a physical or mental impairment that restricts the ability of a person to perform the daily activities necessary to participate fully in studies at a post-secondary level and is expected to remain with the person for the person’s expected life.

Note: Not all medical conditions are considered permanent disabilities for the purpose of the Canada Student Grant for Students with Permanent Disabilities.

Medical documentation must be provided to StudentAid BC.

The medical documentation must be current (three to five years). It should diagnose your permanent disability and describe the daily impact it has on you in an educational setting (e.g., your barriers to education as a result of your permanent disability).

This can include any of the following:

- A medical report from a licensed medical assessor, who is qualified to diagnose your disability and who you have had a case history with of at least 3 years. The information must show examples of the impact your disability has on your ability to participate fully in your studies.
- A verification of permanent disability form.
- A current learning disability assessment that meets Ministry criteria (as defined on the verification of permanent disability form).

The forms and SABC criteria mentioned above can be printed from www.StudentAidBC.ca

Note: If your permanent disability status is not approved at StudentAid BC six weeks before the end of classes, any funding from your current financial aid application will not include grants for students with permanent disabilities.

BC public post-secondary institutions have Disability Coordinators who may assist you with the process of submitting the appropriate documentation to StudentAid BC for verifying your permanent disability.
